

Autorinnen und Autoren / Contributors

Sergio Bologna, born in Trieste in 1937, former lecturer on the history of the labour movement at Padua University, member of the academic advisory council of the Foundation for Social History; latest publication: The Rise of the European Self-employed Workforce, Milan 2018.

Rüdiger Hachtmann, historian, former university professor in Berlin, has researched and written about the 1848 revolution as well as about science and labour relations under nazism, e. g. Das Wirtschaftsimperium der Deutschen Arbeitsfront 1933–1945, Göttingen 2012.

Marcel van der Linden, director of research at the International Institute of Social History until 2014, now Senior Researcher at the Institute, holds a professorship dedicated to the history of social movements at the University of Amsterdam.

Karl Heinz Roth, Dr. med., Dr. phil., historian and member of the Foundation for Social History (Stiftung für Sozialgeschichte des 20. Jahrhunderts), Bremen.

Christiane Rothmaler, physician and historian. Doctoral dissertation on forced sterilizations in Hamburg during Nazism; co-founder of the association for the research of health and social policy under Nazism; member of the project group for the forgotten victims of the NS regime in Hamburg (<http://ns-opfer.hamburg/>); editor and author of several publications on socially unaccepted / “undesired” people under nazism and of The downside of welfare. The welfare system in Hamburg on its way from the Weimar Republic into Nazism; co-editor of the 5-volume book series Social Hygiene and Public Health.

Hartmut Rübner, Dr. phil., member of the editorial committee of Sozial.Geschichte Online and research fellow at the Foundation for Social History (Stiftung für Sozialgeschichte des 20. Jahrhunderts), Bremen.